

CONSUMER LITIGATION LAW CENTER, APC
September J. Katje, Esq., (SBN 227896)
sk@consumerlitigationlawcenter.com
Kimberly A. Moses, Esq., (SBN 187619)
km@consumerlitigationlawcenter.com
100 North Citrus Street, Suite 408
West Covina, California 91791
T: (800) 787-5616. F: (888) 909-7947

Attorney for Plaintiff, NANCY C. CALDWELL

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

NANCY C. CALDWELL, an } CASE NO: 5: 13-CV-01344-LHK individual, } Plaintiff, }
v. }
WELLS FARGO BANK, N.A., } PLAINTIFF'S OPPOSITION TO successor in interest to WACHOVIA } DEFENDANT WELLS FARGO MORTGAGE, FSB, successor in } BANK, N.A.'s MOTION FOR AN interest to WORLD SAVINGS BANK; } AWARD OF ATTORNEYS' FEES; REGIONAL TRUSTEE SERVICES } MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND CORPORATION, a Washington } AUTHORITIES IN SUPPORT
Corporation; and all persons or entities } THEREOF; unknown claiming any legal or } equitable right, title, estate, lien or } interest in the property described in this } complaint adverse to Plaintiff's title } thereto, and DOES 1 through 25, } inclusive, }
Defendants. }

Hearing Date:

Date: February 13, 2014

Time: 1:30 p.m.

Judge: Hon. Lucy H. Koh

Ctrm: 8, 4th Floor

1 Plaintiff, NANCY C. CALDWELL, an individual, herein submit their 2 opposition to Defendant WELLS FARGO BANK, N.A., successor by merger to 3 WELLS FARGO BANK SOUTHWEST, N.A., f/k/a WACHOVIA MORTGAGE,
4 FSB f/k/a WORLD SAVINGS BANK, FSB'S ("WELLS FARGO") motion for 5 attorneys' fees. Plaintiff opposes Defendant's motion on the grounds that the fee
6 provisions contained within the promissory note and deed of trust are discretionary
7 and Defendant is not the prevailing party as Plaintiff voluntarily dismissed her 8 pending matter without prejudice.

9 The opposition shall be based on this opposition, the attached memorandum 10 of points and authorities, on the complete files and records of this action and on 11 such other oral and/or documentary evidence as may be presented at the hearing on 12 the motion.

13
14 Dated: August 14, 2013 CONSUMER LITIGATION LAW CENTER, APC

15
16 BY: /s/ September J. Katje

17 September Katje
18 Kimberly A. Moses
19 Attorney for Plaintiff,
NANCY C. CALDWELL

TABLE OF CONTENTS

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES .....	5
I. INTRODUCTION .....	5
II. SUMMARY OF RELEVANT FACTS .....	5
III. APPLICABLE LAW .....	8
A. IN THIS ACTION DEFENDANT IS NOT ENTITLED TO ATTORNEYS FEES OR COSTS BECAUSE IT IS NOT AND CANNOT BE THE PREVAILING PARTY .....	8
1. DEFENDANT IS NOT THE PREVAILING PARTY BECAUSE PLAINTIFF'S DISMISSAL WAS WITHOUT PREJUDICE .....	10
2. DEFENDANT CANNOT NOW BE ADJUDGED THE PREVAILING PARTY .....	12
IV. DEFENDANT IS NOT ENTITLED TO ATTORNEY'S FEES FROM DEFENDING THE PRIOR CENTRAL DISTRICT ACTION .....	13
A. RULE 41(D) DOES NOT APPLY TO THE FACTS OF THIS CASE .....	14
B. APPLYING RULE 41(d) IN THIS CASE IS NOT IN LINE WITH THE UNDERLYING PURPOSE BECAUSE PLAINTIFF'S FILINGS WERE NOT MALICIOUS OR VEXATIOUS .....	15
C. DEFENDANT HAS UNCLEAN HANDS .....	19
V. FEES IN BOTH CASES ARE UNREASONABLE .....	20
A. ATTORNEYS FEES ARE NOT RECOVERABLE IN THIS CASE .....	21
i. Defendant Admits It Is Not the Prevailing Party .....	21
ii. Defendant Is Not the Prevailing Party Because A Dismissal Without Prejudice Is Not In Favor of Any Party .....	21
B. FEES ARE NOT RECOVERABLE FROM THE CENTRAL DISTRICT ACTION..	22

1	C.NOT ONLY ARE THE FEES UNRECOVERABLE, THEY ARE ALSO
2	UNREASONABLE .....	23
3	VI. CONCLUSION.....	25
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

1 Cases

2	American Cyanamid Co. v. McGhee , 317 F.2d 295, 297 (5th Cir.1963) .....	15
3	Blum v. Stenson , 465 U.S. 886, 898-901 .....	22
4	Bonne v. Redwood Mortg. Corp. , 2010 U.S. Dist.....	13
5	Borelli v. City of Reading (3d Cir. 1976) 532 F.2d 950, 951-52 .....	15
6	Cano v. Glover , 143 Cal. App. 4th 326, 331 (2006).....	12, 13
7	Catello v. I.T.T. General Controls , 152 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 1012, n.4 (1984) .....	13
8	Cook v. Stewart McKee &amp; Co. (1945) 68 Cal.App.2d 758, 761, 157 P.2d 868.) .....	14
9	D'Emanuele v. Montgomery Ward &amp; Co., Inc. , 904 F.2d 1379, 1383 (9th Cir. 1990) .....	22
10	Deutsche Bank National Trust Company v. Mary McGurk , (2012) 206 Cal.App.4th 201.....	14
11	Esquivel v. Arau , 913 F. Supp. 1382 – Dist. Court, (C.D. Cal 1996) .....	16, 17, 18
12	Farmers Ins. Exchange v. Law Offices of Conrado Joe Sayas, Jr. , 250 F.3d 1234, 1237 (9th Cir.
13	2001) .....	10
14	First Nat. Ins. Co. of America v. MBA Const. , No. 02:04CV836GEBJFM, 2005 WL 3406336
15	(E.D. Cal. Dec. 12, 2005).....	10
16	Hacopian v. United States Dept. of Labor , 709 F.2d 1295, 1297 (9th Cir. 1983).....	17
17	Hagan Engineering v. Mills , (2003) 115 Cal.App.4th 1004, 1007.....	14
18	Hensley v. Eckerhart , 461 U.S. 424 (1983) .....	22
19	In re Casa de Valley View Owner's Assn. (1985) 167 Cal.App.3d 1182, 1192.) .....	14
20	International Industries, Inc. v. Olen (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 218, 221.....	7
21	Jurin v. Google Inc. , 695 F. Supp. 2d 1117, 1123 (E.D. Cal. 2010) .....	17
22	Khavarian Enterprises, Inc. v. Commline, Inc. , 216 Cal. App. 4 th 310 (2013) .....	13
23	Kona Enters., Inc. v. Estate of Bishop , 229 F.3d 877, 883 (9th Cir. 2000) .....	10
24	LaFarge Conseils Et Etudes, S.A. v. Kaiser Cement &amp; Gypsum Corp. , 791 F.2d 1334, 1341-42
25	(9th Cir. 1986).....	22
26	Lockton v. O'Rourke , 184 Cal. App. 4 th 1051 (2010).....	23
27	Pedrina v. Chun , 987 F.2d 608, 610 (9th Cir.1993) .....	15
28	PLCM Group v. Drexler , 22 Cal.4th 1084, 1095 (2000).....	22

1	Santisas v. Goodin , 17 Cal. 4th 599, 608 (1998) .....	12
2	Simeone v. First Bank National Association , 971 F.2d 103, 108 (8th Cir. 1992) .....	17
3	Sunstone Behavioral Health, Inc. v. Alameda County Medical Center , 646 F. Supp. 2d 1206 ...	22
4	United Transportation Union v. Maine Central Railroad Corp. , 107 F.R.D. 391, 392 .....	17
5	Wagner v. Benson , 101 Cal. App. 3d 27 (1980) .....	13
6	Wahl v. City of Wichita , 701 F. Supp. 1530, 1533.....	17
7	Wilson v. City of San Jose, et al. , 111 F.3d 688, 692 (9th Cir. 1977).....	14
8	Wilson , 111 F.3d at 692 .....	15

9 Statutes

10	Business and Professions Code section 17200 .....	18
11	Cal. Civ. Code . section 1717(b)(2) .....	24
12	California Civil Code section 1717.....	10
13	California Civil Code section 2923.5.....	18
14	California Civil Code section 2923.6.....	18
15	Civ. Code §1032(b).....	11
16	Civ. Code §1717(b)(2) .....	11
17	Civ. Code §1717.....	11
18	Code Civ. Proc. Section 1032(a)(4).....	12
19	Code Civ. Proc. Section 1032(b)(4).....	24
20	Code of Civil Procedure section 1032 .....	11
21	Code of Civil Procedure sections 1717 .....	10

23 Rules

24	F.R.C.P. Rule 41(d).....	10, 15, 17
----	--------------------------	------------

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

I. INTRODUCTION

Defendant WELLS FARGO is itself trying to forum shop by running to the Northern District in an attempt to obtain an Order for Attorney's Fees, after its attempt in the Central District to obtain a Judgment in its favor failed and the Honorable John A. Kronstadt ordered it was not the prevailing party in that matter and not entitled to Judgment. Plaintiff is opposing this motion on the basis that she already obtained a ruling and Order of the court in the Central District that WELLS FARGO was not the prevailing party in that action and there is no merit to WELLS FARGO's argument that it was the prevailing party in the Northern District action entitling it to any Attorney's Fees or costs whatsoever.

II. SUMMARY OF RELEVANT FACTS

As a threshold matter and to reiterate the pertinent facts to the court, Defendant cannot prevail on this motion because Defendant is not the prevailing party. Plaintiff voluntarily dismissed the case in the Northern District without prejudice. Defendants have not received an order from this Court or any other court adjudging them the prevailing party, and Defendant has already been denied prevailing party status in the Central District. Please see RJN Exhibit "A" WELLS FARGO's Proposed Order to be declared Prevailing Party and Plaintiff's Opposition to Proposed Order lodged as RJN Exhibit "B". The Central District case docket number 59 denies the Proposed Order lodged as RJN Exhibit "C". Further, not a single case cited by Defendants stands for the proposition that voluntary dismissal of an entire action without prejudice renders the other party the prevailing party absent some formal adjudication. In fact, that is why Defendants are trying to circumvent the Central Districts denial of prevailing party status even though the vast majority of the litigation, and alleged costs and fees, occurred in that forum. However, the "purpose of litigation is to resolve participants' disputes, not compensate participating attorneys." International Industries, Inc. v. Olen (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 218, 221.

The Honorable John A. Kronstadt already made it clear that Defendant WELLS FARGO was not the prevailing party in the Central District case. Defendant bases its entitlement to fees and costs in the Central District action on alleged judicial abuse by Plaintiff. However, for Defendant WELLS FARGO to now use this forum to try and effectively be considered the

1 prevailing party in the Central District is precisely the type of judicial misuse it is complaining
2 of. This Court should exercise its discretionary equitable powers and not reward Defendant's 3 tactics.

4 Defendant WELLS FARGO's premises its argument for attorneys' fees in defending the 5 prior Central District on a misleading telling of how and why Plaintiff ended up filing two 6 actions surrounding the same misconduct. See generally Defendant's Motion for Attorney's Fees
7 Page 1, 2, 3, 11, 12. It is true that Plaintiff filed an action in this Court while there was still a
8 similar action pending in the Central District. Defendant WELLS FARGO fails to provide the 9 necessary and relevant information that the only reason Plaintiff filed the Northern Action was 10 because in the Central Action, Defendant alleged that Plaintiff had no standing to enforce the 11 Class Action Settlement Agreement (herein the "Settlement," cited and referred to as "Assurance 12 Agreement" in all Defendant moving papers) and had to pursue such claims in the Northern 13 District. Please see Defendant's Motion to Dismiss Plaintiff's Second Amended Complaint 14 lodged herewith as RJN Exhibit "D", at Page 11, Lines 1-3) . Defendants alleged that the 15 Settlement did not provide Plaintiff with a private right of action because, according to the 16 Assurance Agreement, she "was not a party to the settlement and has no rights to enforce the 17 settlement." Id at Page 10, Lines 22-23. However, although the Assurance Agreement may not 18 have explicitly conferred Plaintiff a private right of action, the Order Granting Final Approval of 19 the Settlement clearly states just the opposite, and explains and eliminates any confusion:

20       "Certain objectors contend that the loan modification program
21       does not confer a benefit upon the class because California and 22       other states have entered into Assurances with Defendants which 23       provide for the identical relief...(however) the state attorney 24       general settlements do not give individual borrowers a private 25       right of enforcement. The instant settlement is binding and 26       enforceable, and class members may assert their individual rights
27       under the settlement agreement." Please see the Order Granting 28       Final Approval of Class Action Settlement, Etc. lodged herewith as RJN Exhibit "E".

Further the Settlement, by its own terms, expressly states that "(t)his Court will retain continuing jurisdiction to interpret and enforce the settlement agreement." (RJN Ex. C, Page 4, 1 Lines 4-5). Accordingly, once Plaintiff received Defendants Motion to Dismiss, that called into

2 question whether Plaintiff had the right to sue for violation of the Settlement, she immediately
3 reviewed the merits of WELLS FARGO's arguments, did AS WAS INSTRUCTED BY WELLS
4 FARGO IN IT MOTION TO DISMISS and filed her action in this Court the next day.<sup>1</sup> The only
5 reason Plaintiff filed any action in this Court was to properly utilize this Court's "continuing 6 jurisdiction" in the hopes that this Court would "interpret" whether Plaintiff had standing to sue
7 Defendant for violating the Settlement, and to have this Court "enforce" the Settlement
8 Agreement accordingly.

9 The only reason Plaintiff did not immediately dismiss the Central District action was 10 because she were waiting for this Court to accept jurisdiction. Both Plaintiff and Defendants
11 genuinely believed that this Court had not yet accepted jurisdiction over the matter, which is why
12 Plaintiff courteously agreed to stipulate to extend Defendant's response date until this Court
13 ruled on what both parties believed was the threshold jurisdictional issue. Plaintiff was not 14 engaging in any nefarious or disingenuous judicial misuse, but rather was simply trying to clarify
15 what the Settlement Agreement did or did not mean for her case.

16 In fact, at the only hearing in the Central District case that occurred after Plaintiff filed
17 her action in this Court, Defendant's Motion to Dismiss Plaintiff's Second Amended Complaint, 18 Plaintiff discussed with Judge Kronstadt the pending Northern District action. At no point in the 19 Central District case did Defendant utilize the defense that Plaintiff was not entitled to a loan
20 modification review under the Class Action Settlement Agreement. The first time Plaintiff
21 realized that Plaintiff may be entitled to a loan modification under the terms of the Settlement
22 was when Plaintiff received Defendants Opposition to her request for a Temporary Restraining
23 Order in early July, 2013, confirmed by this Court as accurate on July 16, 2013 in the July 16
24 Order. See Order Denying Plaintiff's Ex Parte Application for Restraining Order Page 12, Lines
25 11-21. Consistent with the explanation above, Plaintiff immediately dismissed this action the 26 next day on July 17, 2013, and has not initiated any other proceedings.

27 <sup>1</sup> In addition, she also voluntarily dismissed all Causes of Action relating to origination in the pending
28 Central District Action for which she could not proceed on the basis of res judicata, due to the claims already being resolved as part of the Class Action Settlement.

1 For all the above-mentioned reasons, as further explained in detail below, Defendants are 2 not entitled to attorney's fees in this action because they are not the prevailing party in this
3 action, were not the prevailing party in the Central District action, and even if FRCP 41(d)
4 applies in this case, this Court should not exercise its equitable discretion because Plaintiff did
5 not engage in the type of malicious activity that warrants such extraordinary relief and the net
6 effect of such a ruling will work to undermine the ruling of the Honorable Judge Kronstadt in the 7 Central District ruling.

III. APPLICABLE LAW

8 A federal court applies the law of the forum state regarding an award of attorneys' fees.
9 Kona Enters., Inc. v. Estate of Bishop, 229 F.3d 877, 883 (9th Cir. 2000). Although California
10 law "ordinarily does not allow for the recovery of attorneys' fees," California Civil Code section
11 1717 provides for an award of attorneys' fees where the parties contractually obligate themselves
12 to compensate each other. Farmers Ins. Exchange v. Law Offices of Conrado Joe Sayas, Jr., 250
13 F.3d 1234, 1237 (9th Cir. 2001).

14 Defendants correctly point out that in order to recover attorneys' fees, a party must show 15 that (1) the contract authorizes the recovery of attorneys' fees, (2) the party is the prevailing
16 party, and (3) the fees incurred are reasonable. First Nat. Ins. Co. of America v. MBA Const., 17 No. 02:04CV836GEBJFM, 2005 WL 3406336 (E.D. Cal. Dec. 12, 2005).

18 A. IN THIS ACTION DEFENDANT IS NOT ENTITLED TO ATTORNEYS FEES 19 OR COSTS BECAUSE IT IS NOT AND CANNOT BE THE PREVAILING 20 PARTY

21 Defendant relies on Code of Civil Procedure sections 1717 and 1023(b) for the contention
22 that it is entitled to attorney's fees based on the fees clauses in the Promissory Note and Deed of 23 Trust. See generally Defendant's Motion for Attorney's Fees. Section 1717 governs the 24 enforceability of attorney's fees clauses in contracts and section 1023(b) is the catch all for 25 attorney's fees in all other scenarios. Some courts have held that section 1717 precludes tort 26 recovery when the sole basis for attorney's fees is a contractual attorney fee provision, while 27 some hold it is simply a construing statute that reciprocates one-sided.
28

1 Regardless, Defendant dedicates over five pages of its Motion for Attorney's Fees
 2 explaining how the two statutes, combined with the attorney's fees clauses absolutely entitles it
 3 to every penny of attorney's fees, whether sounding in tort or contract. Id. On the other hand,
 4 Defendant oddly dedicates only two brief paragraphs to prove that it is the prevailing party by 5 effectively stating in circular and conclusory fashion that: "we are the prevailing party because 6 we are the prevailing party." See Defendants Motion for Attorneys' Fees Page 9, Lines 1-9. This 7 is not just odd, but rather telling of the fundamental lack of legal and factual support to 8 Defendant's Motion because both Civil Code sections expressly hinge, at their absolute core, on 9 Defendant being the "prevailing party." To wit: Section 1717: "(b)(1)The court, upon notice and 10 motion by a party, shall determine who is the party prevailing on the contract for purposes of 11 this section, whether or not the suit proceeds to final judgment...(2) Where an action has been 12 voluntarily dismissed or dismissed pursuant to a settlement of the case, there shall be no
 13 prevailing party for purposes of this section." (emphasis added).

14       A) Section 1032(b): "Except as otherwise expressly provided by 15           statute, a prevailing party is entitled as a matter of right to 16           recover costs in any action or proceeding."

17       With such clear language, clearly Defendant cannot be relying on Civil Code section
 18 1717 for the basis of their motion, at least as to recovery of fees for defending the contract
 19 claims, as it clearly states "[w]here an action has been voluntarily dismissed...there shall be no
 20 prevailing party for purposes of this section." Civ. Code §1717(b)(2). As Plaintiff voluntarily
 21 dismissed the Northern District action on July 17, 2013, there shall be no prevailing party, and 22 WELL'S FARGO cannot be the prevailing party or receive recovery pursuant to Civ. Code
 23 §1717. The Motion is unclear, but it seems from WELL'S FARGO's own case law that it is 24 conceding that it is only entitled, if at all, to attorney's fees for defending the tort claims. Thus, it 25 must be relying, in part or in whole, on the catch-all Civ. Code §1032(b).

26       In determining who is a prevailing party for purposes of Civ. Code §1032(b), the Sansitas
 27 court, cited and relied on heavily by Defendants in their Motion, explained that "(f)or the 28 purposes of determining entitlement to recover costs, Code of Civil Procedure section 1032

1 defines 'prevailing party' as... 'a defendant in whose favor a dismissal is entered.'" Santisas v.
 2 Goodin, 17 Cal. 4th 599, 608 (1998) (citing Code Civ. Proc. Section 1032(a)(4)). Further,
 3 "(b)ecause plaintiffs voluntarily dismissed this action with prejudice, the...defendants are 4 defendants in whose favor a dismissal has been entered (and)...they are prevailing parties...and 5 are entitled as a matter of right to recover costs." Santisas, at 608 (emphasis added). Thus, the 6 issue is not whether the claims sound in tort or contract, but rather, if Defendant is a prevailing 7 party when Plaintiff voluntarily dismissed her case without prejudice.

8 1. DEFENDANT IS NOT THE PREVAILING PARTY BECAUSE PLAINTIFF'S
 9 DISMISSAL WAS WITHOUT PREJUDICE

10 As noted above, the real issue begins at whether Defendant is considered to be the 11 prevailing party for purposes of section 1032, when a Plaintiff voluntary dismisses her case. Not 12 only does Defendant only spend two paragraphs "explaining" why it believes it is the prevailing 13 party, but not once does Defendant touch on the subtle yet clearly pivotal question of whether its 14 reasoning holds true when the voluntary dismissal is without prejudice. The Santisas ruling
 15 seems to be clearly stating that a voluntary dismissal is only "in favor of the defendant" when it
 16 includes the finality of "with prejudice." Id. This makes perfect sense as a voluntary dismissal 17 "without prejudice" does not favor either party.

18 Not surprisingly, Defendants "oversight" rings consistently true through every single case
 19 cite throughout Defendant's Motion. Namely, that each case finding that a voluntary dismissal 20 creates a prevailing party, is either with prejudice, or there is some other final adjudication on the 21 merits. Not one case cited by Defendant involves facts similar to the case at issue where the case
 22 was dismissed solely by a voluntary dismissal without prejudice. Defendant was unable to cite 23 appropriate supporting authority because no case law exists that supports granting prevailing 24 party status when there has been a voluntary dismissal without prejudice like WELL'S FARGO is 25 requesting the court do in this action.

26 Defendant WELL'S FARGO goes so far as to say that a voluntary dismissal renders the 27 defendant a prevailing party the same as if the dismissal had been involuntary, citing Cano v.
 28 Glover, 143 Cal. App. 4th 326, 331 (2006). However, WELL'S FARGO fails to mention that

1 Cano is actually a case that functions inversely, but consistently with the facts in this case and 2 gives merit to Plaintiff's argument, because in Cano the Plaintiff was seeking, on motion, to 3 change a dismissal with prejudice to a dismissal without prejudice in order to avoid the 4 attorney's fees and costs granted at the trial level based on the dismissal with prejudice. See
5 generally Id. This clearly shows the importance of the dismissal to collection of attorney's fees,
6 and supports Plaintiffs position entirely.

7 In fact, the only time Defendant really indicates that there may be a difference if the case
8 is dismissed with or without prejudice, it misleadingly cites a case that stands solely for the 9 premise that an intervening Plaintiff, who interjects himself into a cause of action, voluntarily 10 dismisses before a final adjudication is entered against the remaining plaintiffs, stands in the 11 same position as the non-dismissing remaining plaintiffs and “[d]efendant is entitled to costs 12 regardless of whether the dismissal is with or without prejudice” because the defendants were 13 prevailing parties pursuant to a final judgment as against all plaintiffs.” Misleadingly cited by 14 Defendants as Cano, 143 Cal. App. 4th at 331; when really a direct quote from Catello v. I.T.T.
15 General Controls, 152 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 1012, n.4 (1984) All of Defendants' cited cases are 16 equally misleading and inconsistent with the facts in this case. See e.g.; Wagner v. Benson, 101 17 Cal. App. 3d 27 (1980)(Case on appeal after full trial and adjudication on the merits. Primarily 18 stands for premise that attorney's fee clauses can include costs for defending tort claims); 19 Khavarian Enterprises, Inc. v. Commline, Inc., 216 Cal. App. 4th 310 (2013)(Case based on 20 settlement agreement that already determined that one party was prevailing party); Bonne v.
21 Redwood Mortg. Corp., 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 102776 (Not only was the tort claim for invasion
22 of privacy dismissed with prejudice, but dismissal was based on plaintiff's failure to timely 23 amend and the judge's sua sponte dismissal as a final judgment on the merits); Sanitas, 17 Cal.
24 4th.

25 The “with” or “without” prejudice distinction, and the knowledge thereof on Defendant's
26 part, is bolstered by Defendant's own conduct in the Central District when, instead of relying on 27 these same arguments, it sought to circumvent this fatal flaw, and sought directly to have the 28 Judge change the Order to find it as the prevailing party. Finding itself unsuccessful in round

1 one in the Central District, Defendant has to rely on misleading citations and legal arguments
2 that entirely skirt the core substantive issues. Accordingly, Defendant is absolutely not the 3 prevailing party under any of the Civil Code sections or case law, and its Motion for Attorney's 4 Fees should be denied.

5 2. DEFENDANT CANNOT NOW BE ADJUDGED THE PREVAILING PARTY

6 As explained in far greater detail above, Plaintiff, voluntarily filed a dismissal without 7 prejudice of the herein action on July 17, 2013. Defendant is not entitled to attorney's fees
8 because it is not the prevailing party, and, consistent with Judge Kronstadt's ruling in the Central 9 District case, Defendant cannot arbitrarily assume that title, nor can any judgment lie in favor of 10 either party, when the voluntary dismissal is without prejudice.

11 A dismissal without prejudice is effective on filing and no court order is required, “[t]he 12 filing of a notice of voluntary dismissal with the court automatically terminates the action as to 13 the defendants who are the subjects of the notice.” Wilson v. City of San Jose, et al., 111 F.3d 14 688, 692 (9th Cir. 1977). The effect is to “leave[ ] the parties as though no action had been 15 brought.” Id.

16 Further, when there is a voluntary dismissal of an entire action, the action is no longer
17 pending and the court's jurisdiction over the parties and the subject matter terminates. In re Casa
18 de Valley View Owner's Assn. (1985) 167 Cal.App.3d 1182, 1192.) Absent a pending lawsuit, a 19 court cannot issue any judgments or orders. Hagan Engineering v. Mills, (2003) 115 Cal.App.4th
20 1004, 1007. In fact, “[a] plaintiff's voluntary dismissal of his action has the effect of an absolute 21 withdrawal of his claim and leaves the defendant as though he had never been a party.”
22 Deutsche Bank National Trust Company v. Mary McGurk, (2012) 206 Cal.App.4th 201, at 221
23 (quoting Cook v. Stewart McKee & Co. (1945) 68 Cal.App.2d 758, 761, 157 P.2d 868.) “After 24 such dismissal the defendant is a stranger to the action.” Id.

25 To wit: “Th[e] [filing of notice] itself closes the file. There is nothing the defendant can 26 do to fan the ashes of that action into life and the court has no role to play. This is a matter of 27 right running to the plaintiff and may not be extinguished or circumscribed by adversary or court.
28 There is not even a perfunctory order of court closing the file. Its alpha and omega was the doing

1 of the plaintiff alone. He suffers no impairment beyond his fee for filing.” Pedrina v. Chun, 987
2 F.2d 608, 610 (9th Cir.1993) (quoting American Cyanamid Co. v. McGhee, 317 F.2d 295, 297
3 (5th Cir.1963)).

4 An Order based upon Plaintiff’s voluntary dismissal without prejudice, is not a final 5 decision entitling any party the right to appeal under 28 USC § 1291. “The dismissal of the 6 complaint without prejudice is not a final order on the facts presented by this record and,
7 accordingly, is not appealable.” Borelli v. City of Reading (3d Cir. 1976) 532 F.2d 950, 951-52.
8 Therefore, if necessary or actionable, Plaintiff is entitled to refile and reopen the action at any 9 time. As such, Defendant cannot be the prevailing party as since Plaintiff is entitled to refile the 10 current litigation at any time, there cannot be a prevailing party.

11 In fact, as cited above, “[t]h[e] [filing of notice] itself closes the file” Pedrina, 987 F. 2d
12 at 610, and “leaves the parties as though no action had been brought.” Wilson, 111 F.3d at 692.
13 As Plaintiff has filed the notice of voluntary dismissal without prejudice, the file is closed, 14 cannot be appealed, and it is as if no action has been ever brought. Thus, Defendant is not the 15 prevailing party in this action as Plaintiff retains right to right to re-file at any time, cannot be 16 adjudged so if it tried to argue as much, and is thus not entitled to attorney’s fees arising from 17 this action under any circumstances.

18 IV. DEFENDANT IS NOT ENTITLED TO ATTORNEY’S FEES FROM 19 DEFENDING THE PRIOR CENTRAL DISTRICT ACTION

20 Defendant contends that it is entitled to attorney’s fees for defending the Central District
21 action because Plaintiff filed this action as well. F.R.C.P. Rule 41(d) states that “if a plaintiff
22 who previously dismissed an action in any court files an action based on or including the same
23 claim against the same defendant, the court...may order the plaintiff to pay all or part of the costs 24 of that previous action.” Under a strict construction and application, Defendant is not entitled to 25 relief under Rule 41(d) because Plaintiff had not yet dismissed the Central District action when 26 she filed the Northern District action. Further, under a liberal construction and application,
27 Defendant is not entitled to relief under Rule 41(d) because the filing of the Northern District
28 action while the Central District was still pending was not malicious or vexatious. On the

1 contrary, Defendant's action in filing this Motion to seek attorney's fees from the Northern
2 District, after the Central District already rebuffed Defendant's functionally equivalent attempt,
3 is a calculated and intentional misuse of the judicial system that should not be rewarded.

4 A. RULE 41(D) DOES NOT APPLY TO THE FACTS OF THIS CASE

5 Clearly, the black letter of Rule 41(d) does not support Defendant's contention, and 6 Defendant admits in its Motion that it must stretch the literal language, such as the clear timing
7 requirements of the Rule, to make its case. See Defendants Motion for Attorney's Fees page 12, 8 Lines 12-19.

9 Specifically, Rule 41(d) clearly states that it applies to Plaintiffs who dismiss a case and 10 then bring a nearly identical suit sometime thereafter. Id. In this case, although this second case
11 contained some nearly identical causes of action to the prior Central District case, the Central 12 District had not been dismissed already and was not dismissed for several months after this 13 action was filed. In addition, the Northern District case contained causes of action for 14 enforcement of the Class Action Settlement Agreement, that were only and could only be 15 brought in the Northern District, as were indicated to Plaintiff by Defendant that such causes of 16 action could only be brought in the Northern District.

17 Plaintiffs rely on Esquivel, a nearly two-decade old case, to support their liberal
18 construction of when Rule 41(d) is applicable. Id. However, not only does Esquivel present facts
19 sharply different from those present in this case, but it readily admits that there are very few 20 cases dealing with this issue and continues to cite only one case that permitted such a liberal 21 construction, and yet another that expressly forbid such an application of Rule 41(d). Esquivel, 22 913 F. Supp. at 1387.

23 This case differs from Esquivel factually as well: Not only did the plaintiff in Esquivel
24 file three nearly identical suits, against the same parties, for the same remedies, but she initiated 25 the successive actions "only because she planned soon thereafter to dismiss...which she did only 26 three weeks later." Id. However here, Plaintiff only filed two suits and did not dismiss the first 27 suit for over three months, only after the court in the second action accepted jurisdiction over the 28 matter.

1        Additionally, the Esquivel court decided to stretch Rule 41(d) because the court in the 2 first action was procedurally prevented “from imposing any conditions to dismissal” and 3 therefore Rule 41(d) “represents the only means by which defendants can obtain redress.” Id.
4 However here, a liberal construction and application of Rule 41(d) would directly undermine the 5 reasoning in Esquivel and result in precisely the opposite outcome because Defendant has 6 already had its chance to have the Central District determine if it should be entitled to redress for 7 that suit, and the court ruled against Defendant.

8        Last, a strict construction and application of Rule 41(d) is supported not only by the 9 language and logic, but the title of the Rule is “Costs of a Previously Dismissed Action,” and the 10 overarching Rule 41 is titled and deals exclusively with “Dismissals.” Thus, this Court should 11 follow the line of cases that logically follow the law by applying Rule 41(d) strictly and denying 12 Defendant’s Motion for Attorney’s Fees.

13        B. APPLYING RULE 41(d) IN THIS CASE IS NOT IN LINE WITH THE 14        UNDERLYING PURPOSE BECAUSE PLAINTIFF’S FILINGS WERE NOT
15        MALICIOUS OR VEXATIOUS

16        Even if this Court is inclined to agree that the exercise of Rule 41(d) is not mandatory,
17 and it should be construed liberally to be exercised as a deterrent to forum shopping, as well as a 18 mechanism to protect defendants from vexatious litigation, an honest and objective review of 19 both cases together and the natural progression do not support even a liberal application of Rule
20 41(d) in this case. Citing Esquivel v. Arau, 913 F. Supp. 1382 – Dist. Court, (C.D. Cal 1996); 21 United Transportation Union v. Maine Central Railroad Corp., 107 F.R.D. 391, 392 (D. Me.
22 1985); Wahl v. City of Wichita, 701 F. Supp. 1530, 1533 (D. Kan. 1988); Simeone v. First Bank
23 National Association, 971 F.2d 103, 108 (8th Cir. 1992); Jurin v. Google Inc., 695 F. Supp. 2d
24 1117, 1123 (E.D. Cal. 2010); Hacopian v. United States Dept. of Labor, 709 F.2d 1295, 1297
25 (9th Cir. 1983).

26        As an overarching issue, Defendant plays fast and loose with Rule 41(d) applying it
27 liberally when it suits itself and then strictly when it suits them next. Defendant states that the 28 timing does not control and that Rule 41(d) still applies. See Defendant’s Motion for Attorney’s

1 Fees page 12, Lines 12-19. Defendant continues to stretch the rule to include attorney's fees into 2 the "costs of that previous action." Id at 20-24. However, when it comes to focusing on the true
3 purpose of the Rule for purposes of application and rationale, to deter forum shopping and 4 protect, Defendant instead reverts back to the "identical, or nearly identical" black letter
5 language. Compare Id. at 15-20, to Id. at 24-28.

6 Plaintiff does not dispute that some of the causes of action in the two cases are nearly 7 identical. Plaintiff's Complaint did include very similar claims for violations of California Civil 8 Code section 2923.5, Business and Professions Code section 17200 in the Foreclosure Process,
9 and RESPA. However, Plaintiff did not include the Negligence cause of action, and added two 10 completely new causes of action for violations of California Civil Code section 2923.6, and of 11 the Settlement. Please see Plaintiff's Complaint; Plaintiff's Second Amended Complaint lodged
12 herewith as RJN Exhibit "F."

13 Further, Plaintiffs conduct was not vexatious, because there are perfectly good and 14 reasonable explanations that make application of Rule 41(d) in this case inappropriate. A careful 15 reading of the following factual history of both actions and the decision making process that 16 shaped it will "present a persuasive explanation for the course of litigation" that the Esquivel
17 court said would preclude an application of Rule 41(d). Esquivel, 913 F. Supp., at 1388.

18 To wit: October 17, 2012, Plaintiff filed a Complaint against Defendants in the Superior
19 Court of California for the County of Los Angeles, the jurisdiction where the relevant real 20 property is located. Defendant removed the case to the Central Federal District. Thereafter 21 following, and in their Opposition to Plaintiff's Second Amended Complaint, Defendant alleged 22 that Plaintiff could not enforce the Settlement because it did not provide Plaintiff with a private 23 right of action. (RJN, Ex. B, Page 11, Lines 1-3) Due only to Defendant's contention regarding 24 the interpretation and enforcement of the Class Action Settlement, on March 26, 2013, Plaintiff
25 filed the Northern District action to determine if, contrary to Defendant's assertion, Plaintiff did
26 in fact have a private right of action under the Settlement for wrongful foreclosure. Plaintiff 27 initially filed for a Temporary Restraining Order concurrently with the Complaint, but 28 voluntarily withdrew the motion two days later as per a voluntary agreement reached with

1 WELLS FARGO. Defendant WELLS FARGO has not provided a responsive pleading to 2 Plaintiff's Complaint as Plaintiff agreed to stipulate a response time out until this Court
3 determined whether or not it would excercise jurisdiction over the matter.

4 On April 3, 2013, this Court Ordered both parties to file short briefs no later than April 5 10, 2013, addressing whether this Court has jurisdiction, and if exercise of said jurisdiction is 6 proper. (Doc. No. 13) Both parties timely filed their briefs. Accordingly, on April 24, 2013
7 Plaintiff and Defendants entered into a stipulation to push out Defendant's response date to 8 coincide with what both parties believed was going to be a judicial determination on jurisdiction.
9 (Doc. No. 19). Plaintiff did not receive any extension, rather Plaintiff agreed "to extend the time
10 for WELLS FARGO to file a response to the complaint until 21 days after the Court's ruling on 11 jurisdiction and venue." Id. In fact, Defendant requested the exact same time extension in their 12 Response to this Court's April 3, 2013 Order. (Doc. No. 17.) The delay in this Case was not at 13 behest of, or for the benefit of, Plaintiff.

14 Further, the Jurisdictional Order dated April 3, 2013, acknowledged the overlap between 15 the Central and Northern cases, as did Defendant's April 10, 2013 Response to the Order. (Doc.
16 No. 13.) In the Order, this Court did not condemn or otherwise reprimand Plaintiff for the 17 duplicate cases, but rather simply stated that "Plaintiff appears to be litigating a separate case
18 against Defendants in the Central District...Accordingly, the Court ORDERS the parties to file
19 briefs addressing whether this Court has jurisdiction over this matter and whether the Northern 20 District of California is the proper venue for this matter." Id. at Page 2, Lines 4-7. Further, 21 Defendant's Response to said Order admitted that for Plaintiff's third cause of action for 22 violation of the Settlement it believed jurisdiction and venue were proper in this Court. (Doc. No.
23 17, Page 1, Lines 20-23.) Defendants further requested this court "sever and dismiss without 24 prejudice all claims other than the third claim for relief." Id. at Page 2, Lines 8-9.

25 With both parties waiting for a jurisdictional ruling to be handed down by this Court, and 26 Defendant's refusal to stay litigation in the Central District accordingly, Plaintiff continued with 27 the litigation in the Central District. It was not until three months later on July 12, 2013, after 28 Plaintiff filed her first true request for a Temporary Restraining Order in this Court, that both

1 parties learned that “there is no, and has never been, a motion pending regarding jurisdiction or 2 venue.” (Doc. No. 24.)

3 From April 10, 2013 through July 12, 2013, Plaintiff was not sure whether dismissing the 4 Central District action, and then having to re-file it if this Court refused jurisdiction, was the 5 correct procedural decision considering this Court had yet to even take the caseAccordingly,
6 Plaintiff repeatedly tried to contact this Court to find out what the status of jurisdiction was, but 7 nobody was able to give Plaintiff a definitive answer. Id During this time Plaintiff spent a 8 considerable amount of time trying to find a solution, including drafting Motions for 9 Clarification, or other alternative solutions to the overlap that could be accomplished. Id.

10 Shortly after Judge Kronstadt heard oral arguments on June 3, 2013, but before this Court
11 had responded to the jurisdictional issue, or the lack thereof, Plaintiff met with Defendant for an 12 unsuccessful Mandatory Settlement Conference. Several days later, but before any ruling, order, 13 or dismissal in this Court was issued, Plaintiff dismissed the Central District action without 14 prejudice. The case was so dismissed on July 1, 2013. This Court denied Plaintiff’s request for a 15 Temporary Restraining Order on July16, 2013, and Plaintiff filed a Notice of Voluntary
16 Dismissal the following day. (Doc. Nos. 25, 26.)

17 Although Plaintiff may have filed some nearly identical claims against identical parties, a 18 reasonable reading of Rule 41(d) in light of its underlying purpose, as Defendants must also rely 19 on, clearly shows that Plaintiff did not file this action with any malicious intent to harass or for 20 purely dilatory purposes. Rather, Plaintiff followed Defendants from state court to federal court 21 and through misrepresented legal analysis found herself in yet another federal court. All the 22 while, Plaintiff was simply trying to enforce and protect her rights against a Defendant with an
23 army of attorneys and endless resources to both defraud Plaintiff to begin with, lobby regulation 24 to insulate them from any resulting liability, and then find any legal argument to suck the last 25 breaths from unfortunate consumers like herself. Defendant should not be entitled to attorney’s 26 fees or costs for either litigation and Defendant’s Motion for Attorney’s Fees should be 27 dismissed in its entirety.

1           C. DEFENDANT HAS UNCLEAN HANDS

2           As mentioned above, upon a closer analysis, Defendant seems to be abusing the same
3           judicial construct it believes should entitle itself to the equitable discretionary powers of Rule
4           41(d). Namely, in the Central District case, Judge Kronstadt was aware of the multiple suits and 5           still denied Defendant's request to be considered the prevailing party, yet Defendant thought it
6           proper to immediately file this motion the next day in another jurisdiction in the hopes of 7           accomplishing precisely what the Central District already refused to do.

8           To wit: On July 22, 2013, in an attempt to collect attorney's fees in the Central District,
9           Defendant WELLS FARGO filed a Proposed Order trying to get the dismissal without prejudice
10           changed to read: "Judgment is entered in favor of Defendant...and against plaintiff Nancy C.
11           Caldwell." The PROPOSED JUDGMENT OF DISMISSAL OF ACTION, Doc. No. 57 is lodged
12           herewith as RJN Exhibit "C." Judge Kronstadt, in accordance with settled case law, denied
13           Defendant's request because "This case was dismissed voluntarily pursuant to FRCP
14           41(a)(1)(A)(i)." The IN CHAMBERS ORDER, Doc. No. 59 in Central District, is lodged
15           herewith as RJN Exhibit "C." Judge Kronstadt, aware of this concurrently pending Northern 16           District action, chose not to grant judgment in favor of Defendant WELLS FARGO, that could 17           either then be used as res judicata in this case, or as the basis for attorney's fees in the Central 18           District action.

19           Any argument that Defendant WELLS FARGO never intended to seek attorney's fees, 20           but rather simply wanted judgment to use as a sword to expedite this case is undermined by 21           Defendant's own conduct. Specifically, Defendant had a fifteen (15) page Motion for Attorney's 22           Fees and over three-hundred (300) pages of related documents magically ready to be filed in this
23           Court the day after the denial of their Proposed Order in the Central District. Clearly Defendant 24           tried to use sneaky tactics by merely asking for judgment when their obvious goal was to 25           turnaround and immediately attorney's fees, as that is what they effectively did by filing this 26           motion in a separate jurisdiction. Thus, this Court should not undermine the intent of Judge 27           Kronstadt's ruling and deny Defendant's Motion for Attorney's Fees.

1        V. FEES IN BOTH CASES ARE UNREASONABLE

2        The trial court has broad authority to determine the amount of reasonable attorneys' fees
3 to prevailing party in contract action primarily guided by principles of equity. Sunstone
4 Behavioral Health, Inc. v. Alameda County Medical Center, 646 F. Supp. 2d 1206 (E.D. Cal.
5 2009). The fee setting inquiry in California is determined through the hybrid lodestar multiplier
6 approach. PLCM Group v. Drexler, 22 Cal.4th 1084, 1095 (2000).

7        First, the court determines the lodestar amount by multiplying the number of hours
8 reasonably expended on the litigation by a reasonable hourly rate. See D'Emanuele v.
9 Montgomery Ward & Co., Inc., 904 F.2d 1379, 1383 (9th Cir. 1990). The party seeking fees
10 must submit evidence supporting the hours worked and the rates claimed. Hensley v. Eckerhart, 11 461 U.S. 424 (1983). The district court should exclude from the lodestar amount hours that are 12 not reasonably expended because they are "excessive, redundant, or otherwise unnecessary." Id.
13 at 434.

14        Second, the court may adjust the lodestar upward or downward using factors not considered in 15 the initial calculation. See Blum v. Stenson, 465 U.S. 886, 898-901. These considerations
16 include "(1) the time and labor required, (2) the novelty and difficulty of the questions involved, 17 (3) the skill necessary to perform the legal services properly, (4) the preclusion of other 18 employment by the attorney due to acceptance of the case, (5) the customary fee, (6) whether the 19 fees is fixed or contingent, (7) time limitations imposed by the client or circumstances, (8) the 20 amount involved and the results obtained, (9) the experience, reputation, and ability of the 21 attorney's, (10) the 'undesirability' of the case, (11) the nature and length of the professional 22 relations with the client, and (12) awards in similar cases." LaFarge Conseils Et Etudes, S.A. v.
23 Kaiser Cement & Gypsum Corp., 791 F.2d 1334, 1341-42 (9th Cir. 1986). The fee applicant
24 "has the burden of producing satisfactory evidence, in addition to the affidavits of its counsel, 25 that the requested rates are in line with those prevailing in the community for similar services of 26 lawyers of reasonably comparable skill and reputation." Id. at 896 n. 11.

1                   A. ATTORNEYS FEES ARE NOT RECOVERABLE IN THIS CASE

2 One of the factors listed above is “results obtained.” Accordingly, regardless of reasonableness, 3 if Defendants are not entitled to attorney’s fees at all, their Motion must be dismissed. The 4 general rule in California is that attorney’s fees are not recoverable. However, parties may agree
5 by contract to allocate the payment of attorney’s fees... to the prevailing party in an action
6 alleging both contract and tort claims. See Defendants Motion for Attorney’s Fees Page 5, Line
7 27, and Page 6, Lines 11-14(Citing e.g. Lockton v. O’Rourke, 184 Cal. App. 4th 1051 (2010)).
8 Every single case cited by Defendant for the contention that their fees sought are reasonable are 9 cases where the court did so on the basis that the defendant was found to be the prevailing party.
10 See Defendants Motion for Attorney’s Fees Page 14, Lines 13-28, and Page 15, Lines 1-13.
11 However, Defendants are not the prevailing party, cannot enforce the fee provisions, and thus,
12 pursuant to California law, are not entitled to attorney’s fees.

13                   i. Defendant Admits It Is Not the Prevailing Party

14                   Defendant’s Motion does not seek fees for defending the contract claims because Plaintiff
15 voluntarily dismissed this action. Thus, they are admittedly not the prevailing party for purposes 16 of section 1717. See Cal. Civ. Code. section 1717(b)(2).

17                   ii. Defendant Is Not the Prevailing Party Because A Dismissal Without 18                   Prejudice Is Not In Favor of Any Party

19                   Defendant cannot collect fees on the contract for defending the tort causes of action
20 because Defendant is not the “prevailing party” for purposes of section 1032 as they are not a 21 “defendant in whose favor a dismissal” was entered. See Code Civ. Proc. Section 1032(b)(4).
22 Whether voluntary or involuntary, the words themselves, “dismissal without prejudice,” sums up 23 the effect of such a dismissal – it is a disposition of the matter without prejudice, and thus not in 24 favor of any party. That is why, in the Central District case, Judge Kronstadt refused to enter the 25 voluntary dismissal without prejudice in favor of Defendant, explicitly denying them prevailing 26 party status. See RJD Exhibit “C.” Doc. No. 59.

1 As a threshold matter, if Defendant is not the prevailing party, it is not entitled to 2 attorney's fees under any contract or law. Accordingly, Defendant is forced to mislead this Court
 3 by intentionally citing, redacting, and misquoting inapplicable case law for the erroneous
 4 contention that "Defendant is entitled to costs regardless of whether the dismissal is with or 5 without prejudice." See Defendants Motion for Attorney's Fees Page 9, Lines 4-6(Citing Cano, 6 143 Cal. App. 4th at 331; Catello, 152 Cal. App. 3d at 1012).

7 The only sentence dedicated to the fatal distinction between a dismissal with or without 8 prejudice in Defendants entire Motion relies on Cano v. Glover, and Catello v. I.T.T. General
 9 Controls. Id. However, Cano did not present or rely on this language because the judge simply 10 reaffirmed the order of dismissal with prejudice against plaintiff. In fact, the Cano court did not 11 even formulate that language, it quoted directly from Catello. Id. However, even Catello, where 12 an intervening plaintiff who voluntarily dismissed without prejudice fought the award of 13 attorney's fees granted when judgment was later entered against the remaining plaintiffs, does 14 not stand for Defendants contention because the quote really should read: "A Defendant is 15 entitled to costs regardless of whether the dismissal is with or without prejudice, only when the 16 case proceeds without him and judgment is later entered against the remaining plaintiffs." See 17 generally Id. Catello only stands for the premise that an intervening plaintiff stands with same
 18 footing as the other plaintiffs and cannot escape attorney's fees if he dismisses before judgment
 19 is entered. Id.

20 Defendant cites no other supporting case law, and not a single case cited in Defendants Motion
 21 involves facts similar to this case where the plaintiff voluntarily dismissed the entire action
 22 without prejudice. Thus, Defendants are absolutely not entitled to collect attorney's fees under 23 any theory, contract or law, for defending this action.

24 B. FEES ARE NOT RECOVERABLE FROM THE CENTRAL DISTRICT

25 ACTION

26 As explained in great detail above, not only has the Central District court already denied 27 Defendants attempt to be deemed the prevailing party in order to seek fees, Rule 41(d) does not
 28 trump that ruling because these facts are not of the type that give rise to or legitimize application

1 of the extraordinary remedy. Thus, Defendants are not entitled to collect attorney's fees from 2 either case and their Motion for Attorney's Fees should be dismissed in its entirety.

3 C. NOT ONLY ARE THE FEES UNRECOVERABLE, THEY ARE ALSO
4 UNREASONABLE

5 In trying to convince this Court that its fees sought are reasonable, Defendant focuses
6 mostly on the Central District action. Additionally, the breakdown of fees, although deceptively 7 separated into two exhibits, does not actually clearly explain which charges were incurred by,
8 and correspond to, which action. See Exhibits "A" and "B" to Defendants Declaration of Mark T.
9 Flewelling In Support of Defendants Motion for an Award of Attorney's Fees. Although Plaintiff
10 does not concede that the rates charged are reasonable or proper considering the industry
11 standards, necessary skills/experience/reputation of Defendant's counsel, it will focus on the 12 novelty and difficulty of the questions involved in terms of necessity, rationales, and reasons for 13 incurring the costs in the first place.

14 Defendant contends that this action is "identical" in nearly every respect to the Central 15 District action. See Defendants Motion for Attorney's Fees Page 11, Lines 24-28. Defendant is 16 trying to recover, what it predicts will be, "$2,240, for the work on this motion." Id at Page 14,
17 Line 11. However, it was Defendant who voluntarily chose to bring this Motion after knowing 18 that they were not entitled to any such fees because, pursuant to the ruling in the "identical"
19 Central District case, they are not the prevailing party in either action. Defendant's request to be 20 deemed the prevailing party in the Central District case, if granted, would have immediately been 21 followed with this Motion being filed in that case. How else can you explain this 24 page Motion
22 and over 200 pages of documents for Judicial Notice being drafted and ready to file the 23 following day? Once Defendants lost that war, they instead tried to skip the "request for 24 prevailing party" step in this Court, and instead filed this Motion knowing they were not entitled 25 to fees. As such, Plaintiff argues that it should be awarded at least $2,240 as costs and fees for 26 opposing Defendants frivolous Motion.

27 Further, Defendant claims that many hours were spent "closely analyzing the Northern 28 District case," researching "Jurisdiction," and preparing Oppositions to Plaintiffs TRO's and a

1 Motion to Dismiss Plaintiffs Complaint. See Exhibits A and B to Defendants Declaration of 2 Mark T. Flewelling In Support of Defendants Motion for an Award of Attorney's Fees.
3 However, as discussed above, Defendant claims that this action is "identical" to the Central 4 District action, and so all the analysis, research and drafting should not have needed such 5 laborious scrutiny, and the shells of all the moving and responding documents, other than the 6 two-page Brief in response to this Court's Order regarding Jurisdiction, were already drafted in 7 the Central District Action. Thus, across the board, the hours allegedly spent and the correlating 8 fees are disingenuously inflated and should be denied, or at the very least severely reduced.

9 Defendant includes a $2,048 fee for drafting the Motion to Dismiss Plaintiffs Complaint
10 in this case. See Exhibit "A" to Defendants Declaration of Mark T. Flewelling In Support of 11 Defendants Motion for an Award of Attorney's Fees at Page 12, last fee entry. However, 12 Defendant never filed, nor had need to draft any Motion to Dismiss. That is because Plaintiff had 13 already agreed to stipulate to pushing out Defendant's response date so that Defendants did not 14 have to incur any such costs or fees before both parties learned if this Court would even accept 15 jurisdiction. Further, although this Court did issue an Order dated July 12, 2013, stating that it
16 had not ruled on jurisdiction, and would not until such a motion was filed, the Order did not 17 demand that Defendants answer Plaintiff's Complaint and did not invalidate the stipulation
18 pushing out the need for any such response. See Order Regarding the Parties' Stipulation to 19 Extend Defendant's Time to Answer. In fact, Plaintiff began to draft the motions required by this 20 Court regarding jurisdiction and venue. However, once this Court held that Plaintiff was not 21 entitled to a loan modification review under the Settlement because she had already defaulted on 22 previously, she immediately dismissed this action the next day. See Order Denying Plaintiffs Ex
23 Parte Application for Temporary Restraining Order, Page 12, Lines 2-21. Thus, this cost should 24 also not be included in any award, if any.

25 Additionally, any costs or fees associated with researching, discussing or drafting that 26 relate to jurisdiction are the result of Defendant misrepresenting or misunderstanding the 27 Settlement's grant of a private right of action to class members. See Exhibit "D", at Page 11,
28 Lines 1-3. In fact, Plaintiff requested Defendant to furnish it with the list of class members so it

1 would know whether or not to pursue the “interpretation” and “enforcement” of the Settlement
2 under the jurisdiction retained by this Court in the Settlement. Thus, Plaintiff would never have 3 even filed this action, let alone bring up the issue of jurisdiction, without Defendant’s moving 4 papers. Thus, these costs should be denied, or at least severely reduced.

5 Last, Judge Kronstadt has already determined that Defendant was not the prevailing party
6 in the Central District case. As such, awarding any fees or costs associated with that case is per 7 se unreasonable. If Defendant wants attorney’s fees and costs for that case, then it should seek 8 them in the court and from the judge that was actually involved in that case, Judge Kronstadt.
9 However, as discussed above, Defendant has not done that because Judge Kronstadt has closed
10 that door. Defendant is improperly trying to find a back door to circumvent Judge Kronstadt’s 11 clear ruling, and it should not be permitted.

12 Thus, Defendant’s Motion for Attorney’s Fees should be denied in its entirety because 13 Defendant has not met its burden of proving that the fees and costs are reasonable, and moreover 14 they are unrecoverable pursuant to law.

15

16 VI. CONCLUSION

17 For the reasons set forth above, Plaintiff respectfully requests that the Court deny
18 Defendant’s motion for attorneys’ fees. The Central District has already made it clear that it
19 would not order judgment, nor prevailing party status, in favor of Defendant WELLS FARGO
20 because Plaintiff NANCY C. CALDWELL voluntarily dismissed her case without prejudice.
21 Similarly here, judgment does not lie in favor of Defendant WELLS FARGO because Plaintiff
22 NANCY C. CALDWELL voluntarily dismissed her case, at a far earlier stage in litigation, 23 without prejudice. Thus, because neither party prevailed in this action, and there is nothing to 24 appeal, Defendant is not entitled to attorney’s fees. Further, aside from the fact Rule 41(d) should 25 not supersede the Honorable Judge Kronstadt’s decision in the Central District action, the facts of 26 this case, and relevant case law, do not support this Court utilizing its discretion to impose such 27 an extraordinary remedy, and this Motion should be denied in its entirety. In the alternative,
28

1 Plaintiffs request that the attorneys' fees requested be reduced to a reasonable amount in light of 2 the detailed analysis above.

3

4

5 Dated: August 14, 2014 CONSUMER LITIGATION LAW CENTER, APC

6

7

8 BY /s/ September J. Katje _____.

9 September Katje
Sholi Goodman
10 Attorney for Plaintiff,
NANCY C. CALDWELL

11 CONSUMER LITIGATION LAW CENTER, APC

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28